Free tabs give elderly a hand

The Rotary Club has donated 80 tablets to the Christian Family Services Centre to establish the first e-library for the elderly in Hong Kong.

About 500 elderly citizens from seven elderly centers in Po Lam can borrow the tablets free from June 14.

Social enterprise Teen Future will be responsible for post-donation services.

Seven youngsters have established a supporting team to research and download suitable entertainment and educational apps for the elderly.

Chan Fu-yau shows the tablet that he used to compose his book.

Chan Fu-yau is a 71-year-old member of the center who lost all but one of his fingers and both his legs while battling with a disease that nearly killed him last year. With support from the family and the center, he recovered and used a tablet to write a book about his battle.

Chan said he hopes to encourage elderly people to maintain a never-give-up attitude.

"It might be difficult for the elderly to learn how to use the tablets. I don't have fingers and I made it. Try hard and you can do it too," he said.
